FACTORS-1-KNOWLEDGE REQUIRED BY THE POSITION

Comprehensive knowledge of internal and external auditing concepts, techniques, methods and procedures.

Comprehensive knowledge of Generally Accepted Government Auditing Standards and Standards for Governmental Organizations.

Ability to communicate in writing clearly and correctly through such forms as correspondence, briefing papers, reports, and issue papers.

Ability to orally communicate, often in an advocacy role, audit findings, concepts and procedures to groups and individuals in the private and federal sectors.

Ability to manage and direct several audit operations occurring simultaneously.

Ability to plan and direct financial and management audits of large, complex operations, or organizations.

FACTORS-2-SUPERVISORY CONTROLS

Incumbent receives no direct supervision but is under the general guidance of the VIIG and DVIIG. The incumbent confers with the VIIG and the DVIIG on issues and matters of unusual complexity or great sensitivity. The Chief of Audits consults with the VIIG and the DVIIG for technical guidance and assistance relative to the scope, scheduling and location of audits to be performed and in making any changes or adjustments which may be advisable. The Chief of Audits also consults with the VIIG and DVIIG for guidance and assistance on administrative and staff training and development matters.

FACTORS-3-GUIDELINES

Generally Accepted Government Auditing Standards (GAGAS), the “Yellow Book”, accounting pronouncements and guidelines issued by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, local territorial laws and regulations, and U.S. Federal laws and regulations, case laws, statutes, records of legislative hearings, and the procedures and practices of audit entities. The incumbent must frequently improvise guidelines because no precedents may be available that apply to the particular issue at hand. In these situations, the incumbent must exercise good judgment in determining the practices or procedures to be followed.

FACTORS-4-COMPLEXITY

The work of the incumbent concerns planning and directing audits and audit-related activities with respect to the programs and activities of the Virgin Islands Government. The VIIG’s programs and activities are mandated by law and encompass a wide area of audit activity and scope, which affect all areas of government in the Virgin Islands.

The incumbent must develop, implement and manage audit approaches and operations and recognize the differences in these various approaches. Our goal is for these audits to provide an accurate and timely evaluation of a department’s program effectiveness, efficiency, and vulnerability to abuse.

Each review and evaluation may involve one or more organizational component(s) of the auditee within the region, or may involve components on all islands. Each review and evaluation also may cover only a particular activity or they may cover operations or programs agency-wide and affect internal as well as external organizations and interests.

FACTORS-5-SCOPE AND EFFECT

The purpose of this position is to plan, manage, and direct audits of government programs and activities within an assigned locality, whether they are administered by departmental organizations and employees, quasi-governmental organizations, or individuals or firms in the private sector. The recommendations, conclusions and findings growing out of audits directed by the incumbent are the impetus for constructive changes in the audited entity's operations, practices or procedures. The audits contribute directly to the economical and efficient administration of the Virgin Islands Government, and are often considered by the legislature in formulating legislation impacting on various entities within the government. The Governor in formulating long and short-range program objectives and policies frequently consider the audits.
